School Shows

A PERFECT CADENCE performance is a unique and educational adventure for the school-aged listener. Our school presentation offers a full fusion of the arts and science. Students will experience high quality and captivating musical performances by the ensemble while participating in an introduction to the scientific method and sound waves. This intriguing blend will create an unforgettable learning experience for your students!

Making Waves

Suitable for primary grades, this fast-paced show is both an exploration of the science of sound waves and an introduction into mysterious power of music. We will experience the power of musical communication through vivid short performances from the quintet. At the same time we will discover that all music and sounds are made up of sound waves. Students will join in with special sounds in a story and even take part in a live experiment. Sound waves are all around us, and even though they are invisible, that doesn't mean we can't visualize and learn about them!
